

AMALAYA

ESPERANZA POR UN MILAGRO

AMALAYA SWEET WHITE

For centuries, farmers made offerings in hope for a miracle - as Amalaya translates in the local language - for a bountiful harvest.

It is located at 1800masl (5,900ft), in the Calchaquí Valley, northwest of Argentina. The region stands out as one of The Highest Vineyards In The World, characterized by its dry climate with no more than 150 mm annual rainfall, with significant thermal amplitude; rocky and sandy soil.

TASTING NOTES

Bright pale yellow colour. Fruity aromas with notes of banana and pineapple, accompanied with a soft floral freshness given by the riesling. On the mouth it is creamy and sweet, with a perfect balance between acidity and sugar. Lingering citrus notes come in the end, with a fresh aftertaste.
